Directions: Read the passage. Then answer the questions below.

Passage

Some people think you need a kitchen to cook dinner. But you can make easy, delicious meals outside over a campfire.

One easy campfire meal is a baked potato. You wrap the potato in tin foil and put it under the flames in the hot ashes. After an hour, the heat from the fire will cook the potato. Open up the tin foil package and you have a baked potato!

It is also easy to roast food over a campfire. You can put hot dogs or sausages on sticks and hold them in the fire. The flames will cook the meat. For dessert, you can roast marshmallows on sticks. Hold them near the fire until they turn golden and begin to melt. But do not leave anything in the fire too long, or it will turn completely black and taste like ashes.

There are many nice things about campfire meals. To make these meals, you do not even need to know anything about cooking. Some people also say that food tastes better when cooked and eaten outside. But the best part of these campfire meals is there are no dishes to wash afterwards.

5) According to the author, the best part of these campfire meals is that they

A. are easy
B. are delicious
C. taste better outside
D. use no dishes
These campfire meals. This means people also say that food tastes better when cooked and eaten outside. But he or she does not say that this is the best part of these campfire meals is that they are easy or delicious. This eliminates the author writes that you can make easy, delicious meals outside over a campfire. He or she does not say that the best part of these campfire meals is that they use no dishes. Therefore the best part of these campfire meals is that they are easy or delicious. This eliminates the author writes, But the best part of these campfire meals is there are no dishes to wash afterwards. This means that for these campfire meals you do not have any dishes to wash. But we cannot conclude that it is always true that if you do not cook in a kitchen, you do not have any dishes to wash. Therefore the final answer is incorrect.

2) A

In paragraph 3, the author writes, But do not leave anything in the fire too long, or it will turn completely black and taste like ashes. This tells us that if you leave anything in the fire too long, it will become completely black and taste like ashes. Since turning black and tasting like ashes is what happens to food when it gets burned, paragraph warns that if you leave anything in the fire too long, it can get burned. Therefore is correct. It is possible that if you leave anything in the fire too long, it can be dangerous, or the food will melt, or the food will fall off the stick. But the author does not suggest any of these things will happen. He or she only suggests that it can get burned. Therefore choices (B), (C), and (D) are incorrect.

3) D

In the passage, the author describes easy meals to make over a campfire. In the final paragraph, the author writes, To make these meals, you do not even need to know about cooking. This tells us that these campfire meals are easy to make because you do not even need to know how to cook in order to make them. You do not need a recipe or a cookbook. They have very simple instructions that anyone can follow, even without knowing much about cooking. This means that the sentence “To make these meals, you do not even need to know about cooking” best describes why these campfire meals are easy to make. Therefore the final answer is correct. The sentence “But you can make easy, delicious meals outside over a campfire” tells us that these meals are easy to make. But it does not describe why they are easy to make. This eliminates the author does not suggest any of these things will happen. He or she only suggests that it can get burned. Therefore choices (B), (C), and (D) are incorrect.

4) A

In the passage, the author describes some easy meals to cook over a campfire. Then the author describes two meals. In paragraph 2, the author says, You wrap the potato in tin foil and put it under the flames in the hot ashes. This is how you cook a baked potato. All you need is the potato, tin foil, and the fire. In paragraph 3, the author says, It is also easy to roast food over a campfire. You can put hot dogs or sausages on sticks and hold them in the fire. For this meal all you need is the food, the sticks, and the fire. For each of these meals, you only need three things. This means that after reading the passage, we can conclude that you do not need much to cook a campfire meal. Therefore the final answer is correct. Although in paragraph 1, the author tells us that cooking meals over a campfire can be easy and delicious, he or she does not suggest that cooking over a campfire is more fun than cooking in a kitchen. It may be true, but the passage does not provide this information. This means the final answer is incorrect. The author describes two campfire meals. For the first meal, you wrap food in tin foil. For the second meal, you roast food on a stick. However, the author does not say that these are the only meals you can cook over a campfire. We cannot conclude from the passage that roasting food on a stick or wrapping it in tin foil is the only way to cook a campfire meal. This makes the final answer incorrect. In the final paragraph, the author writes, But the best part of these campfire meals is there are no dishes to wash afterwards. This means that for these meals, you do not have any dishes to wash. But we cannot conclude that it is always true that if you do not cook in a kitchen, you do not have any dishes to wash. Therefore the final answer is incorrect.

5) D

To answer this question correctly, we need to find where the author discusses the best part of these meals in the passage. A good way to do this is to scan the topic sentence of each paragraph, since this sentence will likely tell us what information can be found in the rest of that paragraph. Many nice things about campfire meals. This lets us know that the details we are looking for can likely be found in the final paragraph. In the final paragraph, the author writes, But the best part of these campfire meals is there are no dishes to wash afterwards. This tells us that, according to the author, the best part of these campfire meals is that they use no dishes. Therefore the final answer is correct. Although in paragraph 1, the author writes that you can make easy, delicious meals outside over a campfire, he or she does not say that the best part of these campfire meals is that they are easy or delicious. This eliminates (A) and (B). In the final paragraph, the author writes, Some people also say that food tastes better when cooked and eaten outside. But he or she does not say that this is the best part of these campfire meals. This means the final answer is incorrect.
